

LIONS, SHIPS & ANGELS
New enlarged edition with colour photos.

The first edition of this was one of the first reference books designed specifically for metal-detectorists. The book was full of essential details extracted from a dozen or more books, several of which were out of print and difficult to obtain, and others written in foreign languages. Furthermore, it had details of the coin-weights of Antwerp not available anywhere else. If you had spent £300 on books you might have bought the books to give you the information, but even then they wouldn't have had the information on the coin-weights of Antwerp.

Today, much the same applies, except that the books would cost you a lot more than £300, as more of them are out of print and difficult to find. Almost as soon as it was published, a review by Craig Barclay in The British Numismatic Journal of 1995 was full of praise for it: "as an aid to identification, Lions, Ships and Angels is outstandingly successful... lavishly illustrated... armed with the illustrations and the associated index the tracking down of any particular weight is almost embarrassingly easy... No dealer, collector, or museum can afford to be without it."

A review of it on the www says: "The best Coin Weight reference book ever published."

Over the last 15 years we have made annotations in our own copy of the book, each time that a metal-detectorist, or an FLO (Finds Liaison Officer) has been in touch regarding something that they could not identify. Each note has been duly transcribed into the book. We have also been greatly helped by consulting the websites of the Portable Antiquities Scheme (www.finds.org.uk) and the UK Detector Finds Database (www.ukdfd.co.uk).

In this new edition there are many more photographs, taken with a better camera, and they are printed in colour. There are many additions. The content has been carefully examined and, where necessary, revised, improved and updated.
